Sacramento County

CALIFORNIA

Wouldn't you like to see "how the land lays" that will produce wheat and alfalfa, oranges and lemons, raisins and rice, hops and walnuts, almonds and peaches, figs and prunes? Wouldn't it seem peculiar to see oranges ripening when you are doing your winter plowing, or a strawberry patch yielding fruit eleven months out of the year?

YOU CAN SEE THIS COUNTY WITHOUT COST AND WITHOUT LEAVING HOME

We have issued a beautifully illustrated booklet telling of Sacramento County and the opportunities there for YOU. Send us your name and address and we will send you this handsome booklet FREE. There are no strings to this offer, for all that we want, is to have people learn something about this great California County.

George H. Ryland of Watertown, Wis., was in the city over Sunday. It was his first visit here and he was very favorably impressed with the city, especially the Oneida Hotel, which he claimed would do credit to a city of 50,000.

SOUR STOMACH

Eat slowly, masticate your food thoroughly, abstain from meat for a few days and in most cases the sour stomach will disappear. If it does not, take one of Chamberlain's Tablets immediately after supper. Red meats are most likely to cause sour stomach and you may find it best to cut them out.

One Fighter Rewarded

It is stated that the present champion heavyweight pugilist has amassed a fortune of something like half a million dollars in the past two years; that he makes as much as $5,000 in a single week exhibiting himself to curious people at a circus; and that for thirty minutes of boxing, in what was only more or less an exhibition match, he received $4750.

Few financiers and business men and perhaps no doctors, lawyers, or ministers—not excepting Billy Sunday—have ever done so well in thirty minutes. And still it is to be supposed that the people who have contributed the half dollar and greenbacks which those aggregate earnings represent feel that they got their money's worth. What a commentary upon public taste and sense of value.

Hundreds of Wisconsin men, women, and children are dying each year for the want of education, intelligent care, and treatment which would cost only a part of the sum that has been contributed to this prize fighter. And the money to finance the life-saving projects is not forthcoming so fast as it should from public treasuries nor private purses.

I would not be understood to scold those who are now supporting health projects for not giving more, nor those who oppose spending anything whatever. The desire to build up or neglect health and life-saving machinery is entirely one of understanding the necessities and possibilities. If it were possible for health officers to demonstrate results of fighting disease as speedily as Willard showed results in fighting the former champion pugilist, the public would be as eager to buy admission tickets to see the show as to see Willard exhibit himself. Unfortunately, however, overcoming disease and controlling it is seldom sensational but depends upon a steady 365 day grind each year. And even then the results do not stand out until some time after the knockout has been delivered.

An effective public fight against disease, therefore, depends upon the backing of the intelligent, studious portion of the people. These must recognize that immediate results aren't the only results, nor necessarily even the most important. And when once they have seen, they must furnish the eyes for their less intelligent neighbors.

You never have to speak twice to start a knacker to going.

About time to hear from that old Indian who annually predicts a "heap nice winter."

Sam Gary declares that Rhinelander has almost as many poets as his home state, Indiana. Sam's offer of a prize for a poem on the city hall flag pole is causing quite a stir among amateur verse writers.

A. E. Weesher, one of the committee in charge of the Liberty Bond sale in Rhinelander, has the distinction of securing the largest single subscription, amounting to $65,000. This subscription came from a well known lumber firm.

JUDGE BOARD OF SUGAR FOUND
Federal secret service agents Tuesday reported to Washington the discovery in a Buffalo warehouse of millions of pounds of sugar in bags and barrels labeled "top crust flour."

Notations on the packages, it was said, indicated that the sugar had been coming into the warehouse over a period of several months. A federal agent who made a survey of the contents of the building estimated the amount of sugar at 150 carloads, or about 18,000,000 pounds.

Around immense piles of sacks containing the sugar the federal agent said he found a screen of other articles, while some of the containers marked "top crust flour" actually had flour sprinkled over the outside.

PRICES UP 47 PER CENT
Washington, Oct. 24—Food prices as a whole have advanced forty-seven per cent over the year before the war.

The latest official compilation of prices, announced today, shows principal articles of food as a whole six per cent higher on August 15, 1914, than they were on that date in 1913. There was a drop of six per cent in 1915, but in 1916 prices advanced 14 per cent and during this year they have jumped thirty-one per cent. From July to August this year there was a two per cent increase in the combined prices of the principal articles of food.

Flour prices in August were two and one quarter times what they were in August, 1913. The increase was 120 per cent. Cornmeal advanced almost as much with an increase of 120 per cent. Potatoes advanced 87 per cent; sugar 77 per cent; lard 72 per cent and pork chops 18 per cent.

During the year ending August 15 onions were the only articles to decrease in price. Cornmeal doubled in price; flour advanced 70 per cent; beans 59 per cent, and other articles to a lesser degree.

Red Cross Dogs.
The "Boxer" breed of dogs is the result of a cross between the German mastiff and the English bulldog. It is this breed of dog, according to military observers, that has proved to be the king of the Red Cross dogs in the European war. These Red Cross dogs, in whom character and training are said to outweigh pedigree almost without exception, are first taught to distinguish between the uniform of the soldiers of their country and that of the enemy. Then they must learn that their principal business in life is finding and aiding wounded soldiers. By a very special kind of training Red Cross dogs are taught to seek rather than to trail wounded soldiers and to bring back news of finding injured men. The dog must learn to do without barking, for the enemy is always on the alert and ready to shoot.

Would Take Any Color.
The family with guests were assembled at the evening meal. The father carved the roast chicken, and as he turned to each person he inquired whether dark or white meat was desired. When little John's turn came he looked gravely up into his father's face and graciously replied: "Oh, it doesn't matter so much what I take, just give me a little of all the other colors that aren't wanted."

Arabs Still Eating Manna.
The manna with which the children of Israel were fed in the desert was the honey dew of a species of mealy bug which lives on the tamarisk. These bugs secrete it in just the same way that the aphids secrete the honey dew that is the food of the ants. The Arabs still eat the "manna" and their name for it today is "man."

Beeswax Used for Lighting.

Beeswax and tallow were used for lighting purposes by the Romans. Lengths of cotton or flax fiber were dipped in these substances, and they usually burned with much smoke and soot and little light. The rush-lights of the middle ages, and even of recent times, were rushes that had been stripped nearly to the dry pith and dipped in wax or tallow. When "candle power" was adopted as the unit of light measures by the London gas act of 1860, it was taken to mean the amount of light which would be given by a sperm candle, six of which would weigh a pound, and which consumed 120 grains of the candle each hour.

British Roads Deteriorate.

In consequence of the depletion of labor and increased traffic in the munition areas of England, road deterioration is becoming very pronounced and there will be work for thousands of returned soldiers after the war, before the surfaces will be returned to their former states.

Famous Brazilian Seaport.

The first of the important seaports of Brazil that are accessible from New York is Belem, the capital of the state of Para. It ranks as the fifth in size, but to the tourist it is of surpassing interest because it is situated on the Para river, the southern or commercial mouth of the Amazon, "that mightiest and most majestic of all the rivers of the world," writes Harry Weston Van Dyke in his "Through South America."

Getting Something Out of Life.

You are not getting half as much out of life as you have a right to unless you seek to discover the principle involved in your every experience and in every bit of knowledge that you acquire. The acquisition of wealth or power, the garnering of facts, the sensing of joy, sorrow and other emotions mean nothing in themselves. The reason for all experience is the development of the sensibilities in order to broaden the consciousness of the unity of life.

HOBGOBLINS ROAM EARTH OCT. 31

Wednesday, October 31 is Halloween. During this time of the year Halloween parties are given. The jack-o-lantern is the mystic symbol of Halloween. Pumpkins are also used with the meaty parts scooped out and candles inserted. The papier mache pumpkin jack-o-lantern can now be gotten and are more artistic. Other symbols in keeping with this season are black cats, witches, skeletons, goblins, etc. Orange and black colors are used to harmonize with these symbols in the decorations.

Halloween is becoming more and more sane, so to speak. Years ago, and not so many years gone by, any thing movable was surely out of its place the day following Halloween. Many people would sit up all night, so as to be sure their homes would not be carried off and placed on some unearthly spot. Pranks, such as, the carrying away of the high school bell and locking it in the village jail, etc. were among the common ordinary things done on Halloween night. These stunts are gradually going out of existence. The officers of a village and city are on the look-out for suspicious characters on Halloween nights.

ALL FARMERS SHOULD MAKE EXHIBITS AT POTATO SHOW.

(By C. P. Crosby)
The Annual County Potato Show is something that more of our Oneida county farmers ought to attend and to bring their exhibits to. Potatoes are the one raw material that we have here in plenty, and can always depend on a full supply of them. We have a national reputation in this matter, and if we are going to maintain it, we have to work for it. The potatoes this year are poorly shaped for exhibition, they are not true to form, having too much of the dumbbell shape or too flat. This was caused by the potatoes starting to grow again after that hot spell in July. Messrs. Juday and Barstow have been all over the county, seeking exhibition stock and it is hard to find. Every farmer who has any good stock should save it for the Potato Show, and all of them ought to attend. I believe that more of them will attend this year than ever before. We have good roads and so many of them have their own cars now that they can come in easily. Potatoes are making Oneida county famous, and everyone should help and not leave the work to be all done by a few men.

KILLED IN CATTLEGUARD

While working frantically to draw his foot from a cattleguard in which it had become wedged and aided by his 10-year-old brother, but to no avail, Lambert Miller, 7 years old, was run down and instantly killed by a train at Hatley, on the Eland-Marshfield branch of the Northwestern line. The crossing is located just below a curve which the train rounded at a speed of thirty miles an hour. The engineer saw the boys and guessed their difficulty but was unable to stop. The lad threw himself forward to escape the rails but was caught, his right arm being severed and his head crushed.

Miss Margaret Downer, who has charge of the millinery department at Hart & Gerber's, spent Sunday in Ironwood.

LARGEST POTATO CROP

Waupaca county farmers have harvested the largest crop of potatoes in five years, in spite of the early frosts and the quality is better far than the average recently as there is no blight and little scab showing.

Aided by the hundreds of school children who were released from the city and rural schools during the past two weeks, the potatoes are practically all picked and safely sheltered and thousands of bushels have been brought here and to the warehouse centers where the farmer secures the highest cash price on delivery.

Mrs Fred Gillette and children, who were guests at the Bindall home, returned to Duluth Wednesday.

GILBERT MAY SUCCEED OWEN

Just who Gov. E L Philipp will name as attorney general of Wisconsin to succeed Walter C Owen who goes on the supreme bench January 1, remains a mystery. Scores of names have been suggested. Governor Philipp admits he has pretty well made up his mind, but refuses to discuss the matter. The impression seems to be that the position will be offered to former Attorney General Frank L. Gilbert, Madison. Mr Gilbert was the special attorney who investigated the state departments following Governor Philipp's induction into office. Others who have been mentioned are: Senator J Henry Bennett, Viroqua; Frank R Bentley, Harbort; A C Umbreit, Milwaukee; E R Hicks, Oshkosh and Charles E Pierce, Janesville. Mr. Owen succeeds Justice R D Marshall on the supreme bench.

ON WAY TO FRANCE

Rev Father W A Beaudette, former pastor of St Mary's church who left two weeks ago for France where he will serve as an American Army chaplain, writes from New York City to friends in Rhinelander that he is about to sail for Europe. The card was mailed in New York on October 20, and it is probable that he is now crossing the water.

PARTY FOR TRUMBLE TWINS

The Trumble Twins, Emma and Ella, were thirteen years old Saturday. That afternoon their mother, Mrs James Trumble, gave a party in their honor, inviting a large number of their friends. The Trumble residence at 302 Lincoln street was prettily decorated and the occasion was one which the little folks will long remember. The Twins, who are very popular, came in for many nice gifts.

American Books in Russia

The single American book most widely read in Russia is "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Some of Irving's works were translated for the Muscovite public and the Russian boys have been thrilled by the doings of Leatherstocking and Uncas. Mark Twain is quite popular beyond the Niemen and the Berezina. All in all, it seems that Russians know more American books than Americans know Russian books. Ben Franklin's audience was the world, so it does not surprise one to learn from a Russian article that the first American book translated into Russian was the product of Poor Richard's pen. That was 18 years after he died.

HOW 'SILLY' RUMORS GAIN CURRENCY.

Who starts the silly rumors? Dr. Charles A Merder, the celebrated brain specialist, asks the question in a prominent London daily and then proceeds to evolve his own answer. He does it something like this: "Shakespeare has spoken of rumor as necessarily false. "Rumor is a jester, Blown by surmises, jealousies, conjectures; And of so easy and so plain a stop That the blunt monster with uncounted heads, The still discordant multitude, Can play upon it." "Bazaar rumor" is a common term in India," says Doctor Merder, "and bazaar rumors are sometimes true. Indeed, there are fairly well authenticated instances of rumors of important events being communicated with incredible speed to very great distances, both in India and in Africa; and these rumors, though usually vague, have sometimes been true in material particulars. "Thus it is said that the outbreak of the Indian mutiny was current as a 'bazaar rumor' days before the news could have traveled by any means then known in distant parts of India. "Falsity is not a cardinal feature of rumor. "It never originates in a newspaper, even in a paragraph communicated 'with all reserve.' "Rumor is very generally believed. "A wish, a hope, a forecast, a probability, a supposition on some subject of intense and universal interest is expressed and, perhaps, imperfectly heard. The gist of the matter makes an impression so strong as to stamp the preparatory phrase. It is repeated from mouth to mouth with increasing assurance and lessening diffidence. Its interest is so intense that everyone who hears it is eager to repeat it and cannot wait to be sure that he has got the story right, and so the rumor spreads. "Doctor Merder adds that "Rumor" should be a subject of psychological study.

WEDDINGS ON SHORT NOTICE

How Missionaries in the Early Days Obtained Their Wives.

There is a touch of comedy about the businesslike way in which several of the early missionaries went to work to obtain wives before they left the shores of New England, writes the Rev. Francis E. Clark in Youth's Companion. The call to go to Hawaii was somewhat sudden and imperative. As a rule, only one vessel that would take passengers sailed in the course of a year for Honolulu, and of course it went by the way of Cape Horn. Often not more than a few days or weeks elapsed between the decision of the young theologian to accept the commission of the American board and the sailing of the packet ship. But the rule of the board was that the applicants must be married before they sailed for the field. Ay, there was the rub, for in many cases they had not decided whom to ask to be their brides.

But the time and tide would not wait for a long courtship, and so brothers or cousins or roommates were asked to intercede with eligible maidens, whom perhaps the prospective bridegrooms had never seen. It is even said that the young theologians haunted "female seminaries," and that the good, pretty and pious girls were lined up for their inspection.

Although this may be an exaggeration, it is certain that several of the brides who in the early days went with their missionary husbands to Hawaii were wooed by proxy, at least during the preliminary stages of the wooing. It should be added that, so far as is known, all those marriages turned out most happily, both for the young couples and for the work in which they were engaged. Their high purpose, their common sacrifice and their great mission in life drew them close together.

Why Colors Are Associated With Various Characteristics.

The association of colors with mental and moral characteristics is a matter of imagination, although the symbolism is psychologically sound and is founded on easily traced analogies. Black is associated with crime because black represents darkness, which widely serves as a cover for crime and is also representative of ignorance, which is the real cause of crime. White stands for purity because it represents light, or enlightenment, and also, perhaps, because it represents cleanness and freedom from blemish. And it is easy to see why red should represent courage, because it is the color of blood and may be taken to signify vitality. Also a courageous man is supposed to be willing to shed his blood, if necessary, in the defense of right and justice.

How to Remove Egg Stains

Egg stains on table linen should be soaked in cold water before being sent to the laundry. The stains come out quite easily if treated in this way but hot water "sets" them, and makes them difficult to remove.

THE DEPOT AGENT

A Northwestern conductor hands the following article entitled "The Depot Agent" to the New North for publication. He says he clipped it out of a newspaper, but cannot recollect the name of the publication.

The life of a railway agent is one of roses and cinders for the most part. Some folks think that about all he has to do is to sell tickets and keep the extra cent when he makes odd change, but there are other things in the life of a railway agent besides framing your face in a ticket window and opening a money drawer with a door bell on it, and smiling when the folks ask him what time the 5:03 will be here if it's on time.

From early in the morning when he starts the day by looking into the coal bin at the end of the platform to see how much bituminous has been stolen during the night, until sundown when he starts out to hang drug store signs on the switch posts he is an extremely busy man. Between checking over freight receipts and running the hay press for his carbon copies of waybills, it's no wonder he hasn't time to build a fire in the waiting room or rub off last week's train schedule from the blackboard, because he is a busy man.

He listens to complaints with one ear and the telegraph keys with the other, and has been known to answer the phone, sell a steamship ticket and put a bucket of coal in the stove all at the same time, in order to get his work done within the eight hour schedule.

About the only ones who envy an agent his job are the girls in the town, and that's because he has such a good chance to get acquainted with the brakemen on all the freights.

ALCOHOL $9 PER GALLON

Druggists state that they are now compelled to pay $9 a gallon wholesale for alcohol as compared to $1.71 a gallon three weeks ago. This increase is due to the revenue tax and the enormous profits that the distillers are reaping. Since the prohibition law went into effect, the distillers have been making alcohol for the government in large quantities and also the wholesalers, but they are making up for their loss by putting on an almost prohibitive price on the product. During "the good old days" they never expected to make more than 70¢ profit on a gallon, where now they are making a profit of $3 a gallon it is declared.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL

Sunday School at 10 o'clock. Don't forget the adult's classes at the same time.

Preaching service at 11:00. Subject: "The Compassionate Christ". Epworth League.

Evening service. Topic: "Life. Victorious Life". Prayer meeting on Thursday evening.

You are cordially invited to attend these services.

Reasons for going to church: 1. We like to please our friends. You have not a worthy friend who would not be pleased to have you go to church.

2. The sermon may help you. Daniel Webster said, "It is a mighty poor sermon that does not hit me somewhere".

3. It helps us keep in touch with the eternal verities. There is danger that God, our loved ones and the future world will be crowded out of our thoughts.

4. It helps to keep our ideas fresh and high and stimulates us to live up to them.

5. It encourages an institution that stands for the best things, and that cannot live without friends and supporters.

6. No civilized man wants to live in a place where there is no church, therefore join the procession and attend the Methodist church on Sunday.

H. W. Towne, who is one of the town of Pelican's old and progressive farmers, brought a rutabaga to the New North office, a few days ago, which for size is certainly entitled to the grand prize. Mr. Towne says that he doesn't pretend to know everything about farming, but when it comes to producing large 'bagas he can be found right up in the front row.

SCANDINAVIAN NEWS

SUMMARY OF IMPORTANT HAPPENINGS IN FAR OFF NORTHLAND.

ITEMS FROM THE OLD HOME

Resume of the Most Important Events in Sweden, Norway and Denmark—Of Interest to the Scandinavians in America.

FINLAND.

"People in many sections of Finland are eating bread made of rye flour and pinebark in equal parts," said Dr. Charles Ignatius of Helsingfors. Dr. Ignatius is on his way to New York as a representative of the Finnish government. He hopes to obtain a license for shipment of 60,000 tons of flour already purchased. "If we cannot get help in America quickly it will mean actual starvation for thousands and as much suffering for Finland as in Poland or Belgium," he asserted. Dr. Ignatius said people were eating oats with the result that they were selling at 40 times the normal price.

NORWAY.

Jonas Reiner, a Lapp, who was working for another Lapp in Upper Vefsen, was sent on an errand to a summer cabin at Hylperger, a distance of 20 miles. When he had fed his horse he started to build a fire in the stove for the purpose of cooking coffee. But before he got that far the stove exploded, the fragments being thrown in all directions. His right big toe was almost torn off, and a bone was broken in one of his legs. Strong as the man was, he fainted. When he came to, he put on his socks and shoes, which was very difficult on account of the wounds. The lacerated toe was doubled up in the shoe, but as this was a soft Lapp moccasins he finally succeeded in getting his foot into it. When this was done he managed to get on the back of the horse and rode back home again the 20 miles through a wild, rough country. The first thing he did at home was to take scissors and cut off the injured toe. After a long delay the doctor came, and it took him several hours to dress the wounds. There must have been dynamite in the stove, and now the question is up to the authorities: Who put it there?

Mies Martha Golee, a native of Norway, had the experience of encountering four of the machines of Hunnish frightfulness while coming over to this country in a Norwegian liner recently. Mies Golee was a passenger to America on the Norwegian liner "Bergenfjord," which plies between Christiania and Halifax. At four different times on the trip a German submarine emerged from the surface of the ocean and demanded this neutral ship to halt, while the submarine crew clambered over the sides of the vessel, lined up the crew on the deck and examined each person and all the contents of the vessel for contraband articles. The ship luckily contained three German passengers and this fact is believed to have saved the vessel from further violence. So terrified were the crew of the Norwegian vessel that they were kept by the ship authorities in a constant state of preparedness against the submarines during the entire voyage. No one was allowed to undress even for a brief moment, and a life-belt was attached to each person and kept attached until the end of the voyage.

In some localities it was very difficult to get women to take care of the stock at the mountain pastures last summer. A farmer at Toten had to pay his dairy maid $270 a year and all expenses. Besides, she charged 54 cents for each calf born in the dairy which she had charge of.

A man who does not want his name published has offered as a donation $27,000 on condition that others raise the balance of a minimum amount of $270,000 for the establishment of a coast hospital, which it has been proposed to put in operation January 1, 1920.

The condition of the labor market in Trondheim may be inferred from the fact that employees representing a dozen industries are clamoring for higher wages, the raise demanded being from 4 cents an hour to 50 per cent of the present wages.

Karl Ostvig, the opera singer, has been engaged to sing at five concerts in Vienna. He is to receive $1,500 for each concert.

The Bergen steamship company has donated $2,700 to the Norwegian seamen's mission for the building of a new church in Buenos Aires.

Marius Christensen, proprietor of the Mandal electric works, has bought the Tryland Falls at Vigmostad, several falls in the Kora river, Bjelland, and the Tunge Falls in the Mandal river. All these falls combined will furnish about 15,000 horsepower, and the price paid was about $30,000. A new power station will be ready for operation at the Tryland Falls no later than the spring of 1919. The electric works are at present receiving their motive power from the Tradal creek, south of Mandal, but this is far from sufficient for the demand.

DENMARK.

The hope that the railroads this year would be able to handle necessary coal shipments has proved vain. There is talk of a transportation crisis, though the scare is less extensive than last winter. Attention has been directed to the transportation problem by a sudden drop in the temperature, accompanied by snow in various localities. This has made the government prohibition against the heating of houses before October 15 a menace to health and there is an insistent demand that the order be repealed.

Germany has offered to supply a certain quantity of potatoes to Denmark. In exchange, however, Germany will expect Denmark to supply her with articles of which she is in need.

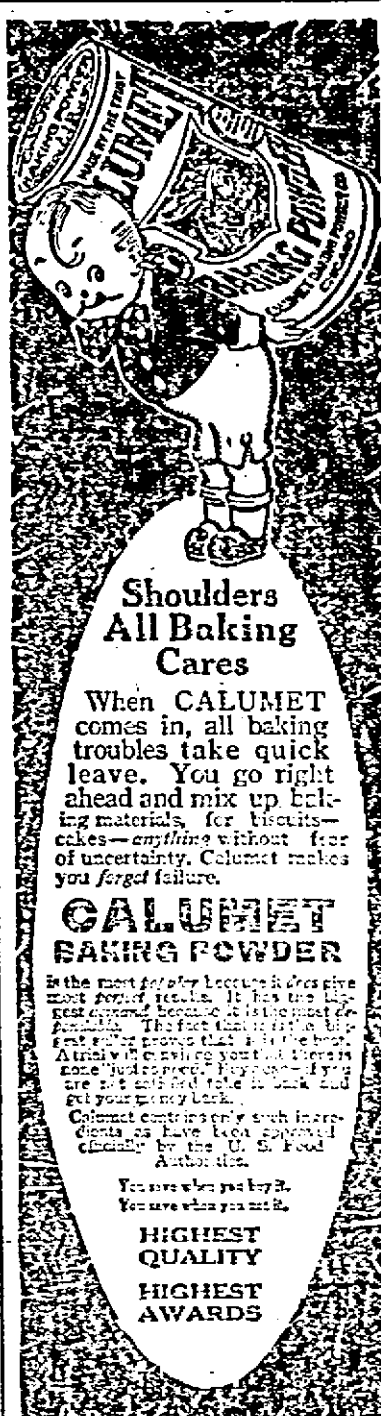

SWEDEN.

The plight of hundreds of Russian families, seeking refuge from their country's distraction in Stockholm, is becoming pitiful because of the rising cost of the living and the decline in the value of rubles. Rents, pension rates, provisions and fuel are mounting steadily in price. Anthracite coal is nearly $100 a ton. Formerly it sold for $15 a ton. Birchwood fuel is $30 for 15 cubic feet. Tea is $3 a pound, pure chocolate, $3 a pound; ham, nearly $1 a pound, and candies are unobtainable. $500 American motorcycles were advertised as bargains at $1,500. Stockholm's Swedish-American society this year will give up its Thanksgiving banquet, which has been a feature for 20 years, owing to the difficulty and expense in obtaining supplies. The American dollar has lost one-third of its value in Stockholm. The schools of Stockholm are being used to house 160 Swedish families unable to pay the rents caused by the influx of foreigners from the belligerent countries. United States Minister Ira Nelson Morris tried to renew his lease on a country villa near Stockholm, worth about $5,000 or $6,000. He offered $3,000 a year rental for it, but the owner refused, saying he could sell it for $17,000 within a year. The cost of living is at least double what it was in Berlin last May. Germany is sending Sweden petroleum, coal, grain, machine oil, fertilizers, salt and medicine. Five thousand head of highbred Swedish cattle are being sent to Germany, but Sweden insists that Germany return the hides and 10 pounds of tallow from every animal sent. Sweden imported annually before the war 85,000 tons of pig iron from England, and 10,000 tons from Germany. The importation from Germany has increased enormously during the war, reaching 50,000 tons for 1916, while the importation from England fell to 52,000 tons in 1916 and to 3,000 tons from January to May, 1917. To make up this deficiency, importations from the United States were undertaken with the result that 4,000 tons were imported in 1916 and nearly 19,000 tons during the first five months of this year. Sweden's exports of iron ore to Germany decreased 700,000 tons in 1916. The export of iron ore to England showed an increase of 175,000 tons in 1916.

Recent reports from Sweden indicate a shortage of all kinds of metals except iron. Last spring it was revealed that German agents, spread throughout Sweden, cornered most of the copper coins and took them over to Germany. The Swedish mint had to make the new currency of iron. The export of all kinds of machines and apparatus made of metals other than iron has now been prohibited by the government. The merchants are not even allowed to export porcelain wares, picture frames, or the like, mounted with other metal than iron. Among the wares prohibited by the new stipulations are electric and telephone apparatus, railway and street cars connected with motors or engines, shoe soles of fiber, wood or pasteboard, carton and incandescent lamps, wires, hare furs, cones of firs and pines, quick lime and pulverized lime. Fertilizers are especially rare in Sweden, and these conditions hamper considerably the agricultural work.

A close supporter and friend of Hjalmar Branting, the socialist leader, in discussing the program of the new government of Sweden, said in part: "The new government has an extensive and interesting program which it has not yet written, as it must be the subject of discussion and perhaps compromises with the liberals. Its biggest task may be said to be the revision of the constitutional provision relating to the election of members of the first chamber, the basis now being the proportionate amount of taxes the voters pay. We want a one-man-one-vote as in America. We shall so alter the constitution to grant votes to women. We shall try to improve the economic conditions. Another of our important tasks will be to solve the problem of unemployment which is found mainly in winter."

The state department, at the request of the food administration, has asked the British government to release the three bags of Swedish mail seized at Halifax from the steamer that brought Dr. Lundbohm, a member of the Swedish economic mission, to this country. It developed the pouches are at the British embassy in Washington with their seals intact. Sweden is understood to insist that the pouches must be delivered to the Swedish legation without being examined, as they were in transit as "courier" or official mail.

MUST FIGHT FOR LIVES AND HONOR

E. R. Sensenbrenner, Now In France, Sends Plea To Battle For Liberty

C. R. Sensenbrenner, who until a short time ago made regular trips to Rhinelander as salesman for the Cudahy Packing company is now a Private in Company F, Thirtieth United States engineers. He writes to his mother, Mrs. Joseph Sensenbrenner, as follows from "some where in France":

"Americans fighting in France are not fighting for France alone, they are fighting for you, your kin, your liberty and freedom."

"Prussianism is a terrible menace and if we Americans do not cooperate and send plenty of troops, food, and money over here to successfully end this war, our very lives and honor and freedom and our own glorious country will suffer and pay for it."

"From what yarns I have heard about the Germans for boches (as the French call them) I would turn my own gun on myself sooner than be taken prisoner by them. And they are greater enemies of ours than you realize over there. Did you read what J. Ogden Armour said about this war? 'We are in for it and must give our all to this war or lose every thing that we have,' or words to that effect."

"America is not waking up in the way that it should by any means. If we do not give poor France our entire unlimited help in this war and aid her, as she so nobly aided us in our war of the revolution, there is a just possibility of Prussianism dominating the world. Wish that I might make you see the importance of America's co-operation in this terrible war."

"Don't pay any attention to what Americans may say about the foolishness of Germany ever landing an army in America. Take it from one who is here on the ground, so to speak, and knows, it is possible. The boches must be subdued in this war and America must do her share or pay the penalty eventually. So if you know any boys who are hesitating about enlisting, for heaven's sake, wake them up and urge them to go."

"We need men and aeroplanes and supplies and must have them in order to finish our task."

"And our task is to end or help end this bloody war. Trench warfare now is about at a deadlock. It would take years to defeat the Kaiser that way. Just now he is slipping a bit, but the suffering going on here should be ended as soon as possible."

IN MINNEAPOLIS

Caesar Carlson, son of August Carlson, has been transferred from Great Lakes naval training station to Minneapolis, Minn., where he is taking a course in Dunwoody Institute in preparation for the United States naval radio service.

Caesar writes his father, that thirty-seven boys in his class arrived in Minneapolis last Saturday. They occupy all one floor of one of the leading hotels in the city and are being treated like young princes. The course will probably occupy the entire winter and in the spring the boys will be assigned to sea service.

"Every boy would want to enlist if he could only see how nice we are being used," writes Caesar.

PRODUCTION PLEASURES

An audience which filled nearly every seat in the house witnessed the production, "One Girl's Experience," at the Majestic theater Tuesday evening. It was an attraction of the better class and gave general satisfaction.

Rhinelander theater patrons appreciate Mr. Zander's efforts to give them the best road shows possible to look.

PATRONIZING HOME INDUSTRY

The Californian gets up at the alarm of a Connecticut clock, buttons his Chicago suspenders to Detroit overalls, washes his face with Cincinnati soap, in a Pennsylvania basin; wipes on a Rhode Island towel; sits to a Grand Rapids table; eats Kansas City meat and Minneapolis flour with Idaho potatoes, cooked with Indiana lard on a St. Louis stove, burning Wyoming coal, puts a New York bridal on a Colorado broncho, fed with Iowa corn; plows a five-acre farm, covered with an Ohio mortgage with a Chatanooga plow. When bedtime comes he reads a chapter from a bible printed in Boston, says a prayer written in Jerusalem, crawls under a blanket made in New Jersey, only to be kept awake by fleas, the only home product of his state—Going the Rounds.

AN HONEST LAD

By LORA SIMMS.

Mrs. Mapes always referred to her two Bohemians and the Royal Bohemian as "the rugs that Dustin ate up," and lost anyone who heard her might surmise that Dustin was a sort of carpet moth, she would go on to explain just how on that August day, a half-dozen years before, Dustin had first come up her, poplar-lined driveway staggering and stooping under the load of the rugs.

He approached her like any other peddler and proceeded to open his pack before her as she and the golden-haired Lida sat stringing beans for dinner. But right from the first Mrs. Mapes always insisted she could see that there was something different in Dustin's face. There was honesty and ambition. She knew it from the start.

Mrs. Mapes had heard the tale of the student working his way through college so often that there must have been something unusually earnest about Dustin's appearance to have made him reuse her sympathies as he did.

"You wanted to enter this year?" she asked, feeling of the silky fineness of the rugs before her.

"Yes, yes," he faltered. "I am a little older than the average freshman—but you see I am alone in the world; genuine vegetable dyes all the way through," he continued more glibly. "I can let you have the large one for a hundred dollars—just what it would cost at wholesale. That smaller one could go at fifty. I'll give you the lot for $400."

Mrs. Mapes tried to conceal the look that must have indicated her despair even at the thought of possessing that much ready money. Then the inspiration flashed through her mind. She gave a look at her daughter—Lida was seventeen then.

"I can't afford to pay you that money for them," she said. "But I feel that I must have those rugs. How would this scheme strike you? We have a large house here and we are near the campus. I could take you in and give you board and lodging for two years in payment. You could eat out the price of the rugs."

Dustin was embarrassed, especially because he knew that the golden-haired blue-eyed girl was watching him intently. He hated to reject the offer.

"I am afraid that wouldn't go very far," he said, however. "I had hoped to make enough on these rugs to put me through college."

Mrs. Mapes, with her glasses on, was inspecting the threads of the reverse side of the rug. Apparently the weave suited her. "Well, then, make it board and lodging for four years." And before giving the poor student time to accept or reject this offer Mrs. Mapes was dragging the rugs through the long French windows that opened between the veranda and the drawing room of her old-fashioned house.

So Dustin Lorrey went to board with the Mapeses and so the romance that was inevitable began between Dustin and Lida. Lida was just the sort of blue-eyed, golden-haired lassie that might have been a college-town belle, between the ages of seventeen and twenty-three or so, had it not been for Dustin.

After graduating, Dustin induced Mrs. Mapes to listen to his story, which was about as follows:

"When you made that offer to take me in," he said, looking between phrases back to Lida for encouragement, "I tried to get out of it, and then—then I looked at Lida sitting beside you. It came to me that the best thing I could do was to accept your offer and stay right here. So I let the gang know—told them if they made any fuss about the rugs I'd have them all exposed. And so I stayed. The rugs—well, they aren't exactly what I cracked them up to be. They aren't antiques and they were smuggled. Lida knew that—I told her. But it was Lida that made me stick it out and finish here before I told you, and when I graduated and left here I told Lida that I wouldn't come back till I had made good and until I could pay you on the level for that long board bill."

Mrs. Mapes had thrown her fat arms around Dustin's neck. "I always knew you were an honest lad," she said. "I knew it the first time I saw you. It wasn't half so bad to stick me with these rugs as it would have been to go off and leave Lida here with a broken heart. That's what people here say you did. But I knew you'd come back. But don't you fret about the board bill. Unless you've got to send the rugs back to the customs people they're good enough for me." (Copyright, 1917, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Red Hen—Red Egg

Adolph Forsberg of Avon is the owner of a large flock of hens, among them being several Rhode Island reds. A few days ago he went into the henhouse to gather in whatever eggs he might find. One of these was a red egg which he assumes was laid by a red hen. He showed this egg to a number of friends. They were sceptical, and tried to scrape off what they thought might be red paint, but it would not come off. Mr. Forsberg insisted that the egg is just as it was deposited in a nest by a domesticated hen.

He can suggest no reason for the phenomena other than that some of his hens had feasted on the remains of a strawberry bed, and that some were now engaged in devouring his raspberries.—Boston Herald.

Floating Islands.

Many floating islands have at various periods been found voyaging on the Atlantic. These islands were originally part of the lowlying river banks, which broke away under stress of storm or flood and floated out to sea. The Orinoco, the Amazon, La Plata and other tropical rivers often send forth such pieces of their shores. Some of the bits of land are of large size and carry animals, insects and vegetation, at times including trees, the roots of which serve to hold the land intact, while their branches and leaves serve as sails for the wind. Generally the waves break up these islands shortly after they put to sea, but sometimes, under favorable conditions, they travel long distances.

Graphite as a Lubricant.

Graphite, says the Scientific American, is not a lubricant, but an aid to keeping a bearing in good working order by filling up the minute irregularities of the shaft and bearing, and producing a beautiful, polished surface, and in this way reduces friction. To get this result only a very small quantity of graphite is necessary, and if too much is applied it simply collects in wads and defeats the purpose intended. It follows that the proper way to use graphite successfully is to mix thoroughly a small quantity with the lubricating oil at suitable intervals, and not to apply it continuously, for when the above mentioned polished surface is formed it will last quite a long time before requiring renewal.
